Padang Mangatas is a 280-hectare expanse of green grass with thousands of cattle roaming around, located at the waist of Mount Sago, Mungo, Luak, 50 Kota District, West Sumatra. The vast expanse of grassland is a special location for animal husbandry. It is named the Center for Superior Livestock Breeding and Forage Animal Feed for Padang Mengatas (BPTU-HPT), founded in 1916 by the Dutch East Indies colonial era. The meadow in the Padang Mangatas has a natural beauty similar to New Zealand's.
